Many municipalities, villages and townships fear that skyrocketing health care costs are rising to unsustainable levels. While there is no simple formula for lowering the growth in health care costs, local governments in Cuyahoga County are finding relief through the County's health care collaborative that partners with providers that provide quality care while developing strategies for reducing health care costs.

Please join us as Ray DeAngelis, Strategy/Business Development from Metro-Health System, discusses the changing health care system and the financial benefit of joining Cuyahoga County Shared Health Services.
