As the public funder for arts and culture, Cuyahoga Arts & Culture has invested $140 million in more than 300 organizations and made more than 1,400 grants since 2008. From field trips to museums, to student programming and distance learning at senior centers, Cuyahoga Arts & Culture helps Cuyahoga County residents with programs that offer education for everyone.

Public investment in arts and culture makes our community vibrant and makes Cuyahoga County a great place to live, work and play. It also provides creative opportunities for lifelong learning and enriches our lives.

How has Cuyahoga Arts & Culture touched your community? How are they impacting our county economically and beyond?

Please join us and our guest speaker, Karen Gahl-Mills for a first-hand view of the many ways this publicly-funded organization operates and how it has connected you and your residents to the arts.
